Los Angeles, CA (May 2, 2019) – Dean Cain and Montel Williams will present the inaugural Impact Humanity Television and Film Festival (IHTFF) at the Moscow Cinema in Yerevan, Armenia on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 15 and 16, 2019. The new Festival will be organized as part of the Aurora Forum, which will take place on October 14 – 21, 2019. The Aurora Forum is a new arena for global citizens who aspire to tackle the world’s pressing challenges by embracing the best humanitarian and educational practices further social, cultural, scientific, and technological developments.

Dean Cain said: “It is our great honor to introduce our new Festival as part of the Aurora Forum. The IHTFF will highlight television and film projects that involve human rights and strive to preserve and advance humanitarian causes. With so much strife and indifference in the world we live in today, our goal is to recognize responsible television and film projects which are catalysts for change for the betterment of humanity.”

Montel Williams said: “Our Festival will focus on the current humanitarian progress being made, despite local and global obstacles, that directly speak about human rights and causes in a significant way. This is the moral, and right thing, to do. We want to build meaningful bridges to the future, which will impact society in the years that lie ahead of us.”

Andres Castillo, Festival Director, said, “We are currently accepting submissions in five categories: Documentary Shorts & News Stories; Television Specials; Television Episodic Series; Narrative Features; and Documentary Features. There is no fee to submit entries. Submission deadline is Sunday, June 30, 2019. A distinguished judging panel of prominent filmmakers, humanitarians and Hollywood entertainment industry leaders will select the winning entries, which will be announced around Friday, August 30, 2019. Exhibition Format for all films must be in Blu-Ray. We encourage filmmakers to submit their films via FilmFreeway at www.impacthumanityfestival.org.”

During the week of the Aurora Forum <https://auroraforum.com/>, the IHTFF winning entries will be screened, prizes will be awarded and VIP panels discussing the importance of films communicating human rights worldwide will take place.
